

The Noah Awards

The Noah Curtis Godwin Lloyd Endowment Fund was established to provide financial support to the Noah Awards.

The Noah Awards are in memory of Baby Noah Lloyd who was born on April 6th, 2008, and died two days later on April 8th, 2008 of septicemia from a small bowel volvulus. Noah's family has established this award in memory of Noah, and to provide support for three awards that focus on primary healthcare.

The three Noah Awards are:

- The Noah Scholarship, which is awarded to a medical student, resident, or graduate student in a health related discipline, who is planning a career in a primary healthcare discipline.
- The Noah Research Award, which is awarded to a researcher in a primary healthcare discipline.
- The Noah Education Award, which is awarded to an educator in a primary healthcare discipline.

The award winners must have succeeded through hard work and perseverance, and display humility and gentleness of character in approaching work and life.
