

People's Health Matters

Community Health and Humanities Seminar Speaker Series

RESEARCH EXCHANGE GROUPS: Healthy Engagement at NLCAHR

Friday, January 31, 2020

1 p.m.

Lecture Theatre B,
Faculty of Medicine

ROCHELLE BAKER

Manager, Communications, Partnerships & Research Exchange Groups

NL Centre for Applied Health Research (NLCAHR), Faculty of Medicine, Memorial University

NLCAHR's Research Exchange Groups are organized around the principle that when it comes to health and healthcare, academics are not the only experts. Welcoming people with lived experience together with partners from health, community, and academic settings, the program fosters research that respects diverse expertise. Twenty active groups have been organized around topics ranging from aging and autism to mental health and palliative care. Over 1,100 group members exchange knowledge, build collaborative teams, and promote the use of health evidence. For Memorial's learners, staff, and faculty, the groups provide a chance to find out what's happening in your community, to discuss your research, and to meet people who share your interests. Open to all and free to attend, the program asks you to bring only your curiosity (and maybe a bagged lunch).

Rochelle Baker has worked for over 20 years as a communications professional in both the academic and private sectors. She is passionate about making the best health evidence accessible to a wide variety of audiences and is honoured to work every day with so many talented academic and community partners who are dedicated to improving health and healthcare in Newfoundland & Labrador.

For more information contact:

DARLENE TOBIN | ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT
Division of Community Health and Humanities | Faculty of Medicine
Memorial University of Newfoundland
St. John's, Newfoundland | A1B 3V6
Health Sciences Centre | Room 2832A
T 709 864 4959 | F 709 864 4991
www.med.mun.ca/communityhealth

FACULTY OF MEDICINE